

Improving Sperm with Acupuncture

Sperm Quality, Count and Motility

July 25, 2005– Acupuncture improves the sperm quality in male infertility, according to a study reported in the July issue of Fertility and Sterility. Well, der! We've known that for years. But seriously, the study is great; because it highlights the fact that acupuncture on its own can improve sperm quality dramatically. Combine with Chinese herbal medicine and the sperm will have capes with a little "S" on them.

The study showed that after acupuncture, there was a statistically significant increase in the percentage of sperm and improvement in the acrosome position and shape, nuclear shape, axonemal pattern and shape, and accessory fibres of sperm organelles, without ultra structural defects in the total ejaculates.

Basically, in layman's terms, it means that the overall motility, shape and swimming ability of the sperm was dramatically improved by acupuncture.

Over the years I have treated a lot of male infertility issues with great success. Even some men, who have had no sperm count at all, now have a happy family at home all thanks to Acupuncture and Chinese Medicine. So, if your partner has issues with sperm count & motility here is more proof that he should be getting treatment from us too. For those couples doing IVF, this should be a must. Great sperm = Great embryos.

Everyone could do with improving. By combining some acupuncture with the rest of our protocol, your sperm could all be swimming around with capes with "S's" on them.